

Want to be a marketing representative?

ARAMARK Food Crew

"I learned more about myself and the business/marketing world than I ever could've in a classroom. This experience will undoubtedly be a reference point as I head out to my first job and beyond."

- Michelle Levine, University of Florida

To be a part of the ARAMARK Food Crew is a chance for you to gain real-world, hands-on business experience, while helping design and execute key marketing strategies for ARAMARK, a global leader in professional services, on your campus.

As a four-person marketing agency, you will implement marketing and sales activities on-campus and in your local community. Hands-on experience, being paid, networking, and the possibility of cash incentives, are some of the benefits you will receive.

Get ready for a rewarding challenge!
