

Catholic University Dining Services Special Dietary Accommodation Request Form

If you are living with a medically diagnosed food allergy or intolerance, you are not alone and the Campus Dining Services can develop a program to help you. Students requesting special accommodation for food allergies and medical conditions should do the following:

1. Fill out this form and visit Student Health Services located at the Kane Student Health and Fitness Center (open 9-5 Monday – Friday) for a consultation and documentation of your condition. Medical documentation from the primary care physician will be required so that the appropriate dietary recommendation can be developed and accommodated.

2. If request is approved deliver the completed form to the University Dining Services Offices located in the Pryzbyla Center, room 124, and make an appointment to meet with the Executive Chef.

Please note: Listing a food allergy on your medical emergency card is helpful should you ever experience an allergic reaction. Telling your roommate is also a good idea to help prevent inadvertent exposure to offending food items.
